

systemd.conf 2016

Sept 28th - Oct. 1st

betahaus Berlin | conf.systemd.io

Where the systemd project gathers

Thank you for your interest in sponsoring systemd.conf 2016. By sponsoring systemd.conf you directly help to bring the systemd community of developers and users together to discuss, present, plan, work on, and learn about topics that are important to systemd as a project and to modern Linux systems in general.

Over the last couple years the systemd project has been integrated into and shipped by every major Linux distribution. It runs as a core component on millions of computers from servers, workstations, mobile devices — pretty much anywhere Linux itself is found. systemd.conf serves as the venue for the people working on and using this critical piece of software to gather together and reflect on the past year and plan for the coming one.

Last year's inaugural systemd.conf was a sold-out event, with two days of talks and a one-day hackfest. This year we're extending the event to 4 days, the first being devoted to hands-on workshops where those wanting to learn more about systemd can do so from some of the people who know it best. The other days — presentation and hackfest — will retain last year's format, just with more capacity. With the additional day and expanded capacity, we are looking forward to welcoming many more visitors to systemd.conf.
